DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 1-4 are directed to stored information on a recording medium. Since the stored information do not provide any functional interrelationship to the medium to control the medium to access the stored information, or impart to software and hardware structural components to provide certain function that is processed by a computer the stored information do not make them statutory. See MPEP 2100.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-2 and 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tozaki (5,729,516).

Regarding claims 1 and 5-6, Tozaki discloses a recording apparatus having a control means for recording information on a recording medium (Fig. 1), the medium (Figs 3-5, columns 8-10) comprising: a first recording area on which recording information is recorded as a set of one or more recording unit; a second recording area on which control information for controlling the recording information to be recorded on the first recording area is recorded, and identifying information for identifying a management condition of the recording information recorded on the first recording area is recorded at every recording unit (column 10).

Regarding claim 2, Tozaki further teaches the set of the recording unit comprises a first set of one or more recording unit, and a second set of one or more first set, and the identifying information identifies the management condition of the recording information recorded on the first recordings area as a set of the first set and second set (figs. 3-5).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 7 and 8 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Takahashi teaches apparatus for recording identifier for a deleted
